

Two Children Wandered Away; One Drowned In Rondout Creek

Betty Collier of 50 Adams Street and Charles A. Abbott, Jr., of 20 West Pierpont Street, Both 4 Years Old, Playing on Dock and Girl Fell in and Was Drowned.

Betty, four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Collier of 50 Adams street, and Charles A. Abbott, Jr., four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Abbott of 20 West Pierpont street, play together in the vicinity of their homes. This morning the two little children wandered away from home and found their way down to Block Park on Abel street and were seen playing about the dock on the Rondout creek.

Some time later the little boy ran to the home of Mrs. Charles Dittus at 106 Hunter street, some distance from the creek, and told her that Betty had fallen into the water.

Mrs. Dittus gave the alarm and police headquarters was notified and Officers Burger and Hess hastened to the scene with the ambulance. In the meantime Dr. John B. Krom, who had been notified, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy and a crew from the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Company rushed to the creek bank.

In Water 20 Minutes. The little girl had been pulled from the water by Michael Keating of East Pierpont street and Howard Furman of 87 German street. It was estimated that she had been in the water for fully twenty minutes or more before her body was recovered.

Dr. Krom and the crew from the Central Hudson went to work on the body but their efforts proved futile. When it was seen that the child was beyond hope the body was turned over to Coroner W. Norman Conner, who removed it to his undertaking parlors on Fair street.

Mother Was Ill. The girl's father is employed as a driver for one of the Salzmann Bakery trucks on Abel street. The mother has been ill for some time. At 9:50 o'clock this morning the two little children were playing in the yard at the Abbott home, and then they disappeared.

According to the little boy's story of the tragedy he said he and Betty were playing on the dock and Betty said she wanted to swim and jumped into the water. Charles is afraid of water and as Betty jumped he ran crying out to Abel street, and finally reached the Dittus home where Mrs. Dittus took him and ascertained what had happened when she immediately gave the alarm.

By the time the alarm was given and the little girl taken from the water so much time had elapsed that efforts to revive her were fruitless. Coroner Conner at the request of the parents later turned the body over to Undertaker James M. Murphy and funeral services will be held from the late home on Adams street on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. The little girl is survived by her parents, two sisters, Rita and Dorothy, and a brother, George, Jr.

Kingston Heir In Winn Estate

Troy, N. Y., May 2 (Special)—Mary E. Busch, of Kingston, N. Y., will receive a bequest of $1,000 according to the terms of the will of her aunt, Mrs. Onary Winn, late resident of Rensselaer, N. Y., which has been admitted to probate by Surrogate Wager in Rensselaer county surrogate's court. The estate is valued at more than $5,000 personal property.

Thomas O'Donnell, brother of Rensselaer, who it is alleged to have slain Mrs. Winn with an ax at their home in Rensselaer, is also bequeathed $1,000 under the terms of the will which was dated March 4, 1932, a little more than a month before the murder. Under the law this bequest will become void if O'Donnell is convicted of having caused his sister's death. O'Donnell's case was considered by the April grand jury, which will submit its report in Rensselaer county supreme court in a few days. The defendant is locked up in the Rensselaer county jail and charged with first degree murder.

Other bequests include: Barth J. Cusick, Sr., of Rensselaer, nephew, $2,000; Agnes Kavalege, niece, $2,000; and John J. Cusick, nephew, residue, both of Rensselaer. The latter was also named executor. Ernest L. Boothby is the attorney.

EARLY VEGETABLES SOON ON MARKET

The early vegetables, grown locally, will soon be on the market. Scallions, a soft variety of early onions, are now on the market. By the end of this week or the first part of next week, the very first asparagus is likely to appear. By the middle of May, local asparagus will be available in considerable quantities. The freshly cut asparagus is always much more delicious and tender than any shipped long distances. The only early vegetables grown locally are spinach and rhubarb.

Three Dead In May Day Celebrations Throughout World

Most Demonstrations Were Orderly—Disorders Less Serious Than In Other Years—40,000 Communists Paraded in New York City.

(By The Associated Press.)

Three persons were dead today, scores were in hospitals and hundreds of heads bore the marks of police clubs as the aftermath of May Day celebrations throughout the world. The disorders were less serious than in other years, however, and the observance of the day was ranked as one of the most peaceful since the World War.

Most large cities saw parades of Socialists, Communists and workers groups Sunday. The largest of all was a day-long march at Moscow of two million men and women, soldiers and civilians, past the tomb of Lenin in Red Square.

One man was killed near Madrid during a clash and two others met death in the coal strike area at Sosnowice, Poland. New York led the demonstrations in the United States, with a parade of 40,000 Communists in a drizzling rain, carrying a bedraggled dragon branded "Capitalism."

Police were busier in Spain than elsewhere, clashing with the demonstrators in many cities, cracking many heads and arrested hundreds of persons. Paris, London, Berlin and other large European cities also had their clashes, minor and major casualties and hundreds of arrests.

In Mexico City 20,000 persons paraded past the presidential palace in an orderly review. In South America the chief tension was at Santiago, Chile, where 18,000 members of the National Guard dashed about with machine guns, on the alert for outbreaks, but none occurred.

Parades were held in many of the larger cities of Argentina without serious trouble. In Buenos Aires large groups of Communists and Socialists paraded in orderly fashion. Celebrations in Santiago, Chile, were confined to within doors by a government decree. One group hissed President Juan Esteban Montero and his wife when they ventured out for a walk.

Havana police rushed a group of 1,000 Communists in a downtown street and arrested a score of them after having seized Red banners bearing anti-government slogans. Australian Communists chased the acting premier of Victoria out of Yarrabank during a celebration there. The premier and his party were rescued by police and escorted to Melbourne.

In Geneva, home of the League of Nations, several thousand paraded and there was much speech-making. Budapest police jailed 76 agitators.

Accuse Naccarato Of Threatening To Shoot Serrano

Considerable Excitement on North Street Sunday—Rumors Started When Naccarato Accused Serrano of Sleeping With Naccarato's Daughter—Other Cases.

Rosario Naccarato of 189 North street faced Judge Culliton in police court today on two charges; one of assault in the second degree in threatening to shoot Pedro Serrano, a Mexican, who boarded at the Naccarato home, and the other of having an unlicensed revolver in his possession. Serrano also faced the court on a charge of rape in the second degree. The charge was brought by Mr. Naccarato, Susie Naccarato, who is under 18 years of age, is the alleged victim.

Both Naccarato and Serrano had their hearings adjourned to Thursday morning in police court, and bail in both cases was fixed at $1,000 each. The police department received a telephone call Sunday that there was gun-play going on at the Naccarato home and several officers were rushed to the scene. Naccarato, his daughter, Susie, and Serrano were all taken to police headquarters where they made statements to the police. As a result of the statements the various charges were lodged against the two men by the police. It is claimed that Naccarato and Serrano had an argument which led to Naccarato producing a revolver and threatening to shoot Serrano. It developed that the gun Naccarato had in his possession, he held a license for, but in searching his Ford car the police claim they found another .32 calibre revolver for which Naccarato had no license.

Other Cases in Court. Tracey Gorseline of 19 Ardsh street was arrested by John McLean on a charge of disorderly conduct in using indecent language at the Brown Servicenter. Gorseline pleaded not guilty today and the hearing was adjourned to Tuesday.

James Wilson, a negro from the south, who drifted into Kingston on Sunday and was found sleeping in a C. & D. Railroad coach on a siding in the lowlands, was arrested for vagrancy, and today was sentenced to five days in the county jail.

No. 5 P-T. A. Meeting. No. 5 School Parent-Teacher Association will hold a regular meeting at the school on Tuesday afternoon at 3:30. A social will follow the business session. Every member is asked to be present.

Prosecution Makes Ready in Retrial of Natives for Attack

Mrs. Thalia Massie Expected to be Star Witness of Territory in Case Against Four Men Charged With Attacking Her.

Honolulu, May 2 (AP)—With a definite promise Mrs. Thalia Massie will testify against the remaining four men accused of assaulting her. Prosecuting officials today were to lay final plans for retrial of the case. Representatives of the attorney general and the public prosecutor were expected to determine a date for trial—probably within two weeks. They also were to decide whether Prosecutor John C. Kelley, who obtained a manslaughter conviction last Friday of Mrs. Massie's husband, her mother, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, and two sailors for lynching the young woman's fifth alleged attacker shall handle the territory's case.

The four accused of assaulting Mrs. Massie last September are Horace Ida, Japanese; Henry Chang, Chinese; David Takai, Japanese, and Ben Ahakeulo, Hawaiian. Their first trial last November ended with the jury deadlocked.

Kelley's Position. Whether Kelley would conduct the prosecution has been a subject of speculation. Two incidents at the murder trial are regarded as being against his leading the prosecution. One was his tilt with Mrs. Massie when she was under cross-examination as a defense witness. Mrs. Massie tore up a paper allegedly containing a written admission of a rift between her and her husband.

"Thank you, Mrs. Massie," Kelley said in anger. "At last you have shown yourself in your true colors." Later, while the jury was deliberating, Mrs. Massie refused to accept a friendly gesture made by him. Yet, if Kelley conducted the prosecution in the attack trial, Mrs. Massie would be his chief witness. Kelley has declined to comment.

The question of whether Mrs. Massie would testify at the retrial was settled yesterday when Robert Bell of New York, her uncle, announced she would. There had been reports that, because of Kelley's attitude, Mrs. Massie would not testify again. Deputy Attorney General Harold Kay said new evidence had been found and the territory would have an "infinitely stronger" case than when the first trial was held.

Commercial Reprisals. The disorders which both naval and civilian authorities thought might follow Friday's manslaughter verdict have not occurred. There have been disturbances. But commercial reprisals have started. The service people have begun buying from the army and navy commissaries, while a group of white women has declared a boycott on the firms employing members of the jury.

Meanwhile, the four convicted defendants of the murder trial were described by Bell as "bearing up under it wonderfully well." "We all were tremendously surprised," he said. "We didn't see how there could be a conviction."

Clarence Darrow, veteran leader of defense counsel, has regained some of his spirit. The next defense move in the manslaughter case, said Montgomery Winn, assistant defense counsel, will come Friday when a motion for a new trial will be filed after sentence is passed.

Arrest 18 in Huge Crude Oil Theft

Longview, Tex., May 2 (AP)—The alleged theft of one million barrels of oil from the gigantic prairie, East Texas oil field is being investigated.

Nearly nine months ago overproduction of this new field was credited with unsettling the price structure of the entire industry, and Governor Ross S. Sterling ordered National Guardsmen to enforce a controlled output.

One of the 18 men against whom charges of theft have been filed is E. M. Daniels, a deputy supervisor of the State Railroad Commission, which supervises proration. Another is Paxton Gray, a former deputy supervisor and a brother-in-law of Fred Upchurch, assistant attorney general. Six of the 18 have not yet been arrested.

The arrests climaxed an investigation by civil and military authorities. The oil was said to have been taken by means of by-passes, a pipe passed around a meter in such a way the entire flow of oil was not recorded. The huge quantity was alleged to have been stolen from five Gladewater townsite wells in the last seven months.

KAPPA ZETA MEETING AND DANCE MAY 6

There will be a busy week for members of Kappa Zeta, the newly organized young men's agricultural club. On Thursday night, May 5, the regular meeting will take place at New Paltz. Senator A. H. Wicks will be the speaker. Members of the club are planning to bring a number of guests to the meeting. Refreshments will be served as usual. On Friday night, May 6, the club will hold a dance in Callahan's Hall at Gardiner. Paul Zuercher's orchestra will play for the dancing. Every body is cordially invited.

Soviet's Huge Army Pledged To Peace As Giant Dynamos Hum

Some 2,000,000 Soldiers and Workers Paraded Sunday Before Lenin's Shrine—New Electrical Plant Opened.

Moscow, May 2 (AP)—The native legions of Russia's Red Army stood dedicated to peace today. They were pledged afresh on May Day, yesterday in Red Square while 600 miles to the south, at Dnepetrovsk, giant new dynamos hummed an obligation of industry.

V. M. Voroshiloff, commissar for war and navy, began yesterday's day-long celebrations by telling soldiers of the Moscow garrison that theirs was a protectorate of world peace. Denying the refusal of the world disarmament conference to accept Russia's proposals for abolition of arms, he reiterated the non-aggressive aims of the Red Army.

"Our proletarian country was founded on a strong Red Army," he said, "which is an eye to the capitalist world, but we are ready to sign any agreement that will secure peace."

Soldiers Took Oath. The colorful ceremony in Red Square, before the shrine of Lenin's tomb, began at 9 a. m., when Voroshiloff received the Red soldiers' oath of fidelity. It continued until late in the afternoon of a brilliant spring day as rank after rank, some 2,000,000 men and women, soldiers and workers, marched past the reviewing stand. It took three hours for all the military units to go by.

Joseph Stalin, Russia's man of steel, and other high government officials looked on. As the parade started, the big motors at Dnepetrovsk had begun to hum and the electric current flow from the huge power plant, designed to supply an area of 70,000 square miles and 16,000,000 people.

Just a Test. It was merely a test, however, for actual distribution of power is not to begin until August 1. The first three turbines of the nine separate generating units were turned on while thousands of workers who spent five years on the project cheered.

Peaceful as was M. Voroshiloff's speech, it contained a veiled threat in case the Soviet should be pressed too far. "Let the world know," he said, "that the Red Army never will threaten anybody but will continue to watch events and be wise as to what to do when necessary. They try to provoke us, but our nerves are strong enough. We will not be fooled by these provocations. If some groups or countries wish to try our forces, we will show them how to resist."

Corbin Hollow Folks Will Get New Home

Skyland, Va., May 2 (AP)—The folks of Corbin Hollow—a community of perennial starvation and penniless squalor within a dozen miles of President Hoover's Rapidan camp—are about to come into something more than their own.

A plan to move the community, rooted in this one spot since the Revolutionary War, to a new section of the mountains adjoining a church mission has been virtually agreed on between federal and state officials.

Mixed up in the strange story are officials of the National Park Service, a Washington physician and a lone woman social worker, Miss Miriam Sizer.

Secretary Wilbur rode into the hollow over the week-end, accompanied by Horace M. Albright, director of the National Park Service, Dr. R. Lyman Sexton, of Washington and Miss Sizer.

They found six families living in the hollow, all named Corbin or Nicholson, all the adults are cousins. The children of sisters and brothers have intermarried. They speak a queer Chaucerian English, almost ununderstandable. They say "holpen" for "help," and "withouten" for "without."

Dr. Sexton reported that the use of soap was almost unknown to them and that many suffered from malnutrition and tuberculosis. He told of taking a 20-months old baby from the hollow that weighed only 12 pounds into a Luray, Va., hospital. With nourishment it has become almost normal.

Miss Sizer said all of the children up to 20 years of age would be in the first grade except two, the star being a 12-year-old youngster capable of going into third grade. But in all Corbin Hollow history only nine months of schooling has been given the community.

Corbin Hollow is within the limits of the new Shenandoah National Park. It is not only to aid the Corbins and the Nicholsons but also to clear the park, the plan of providing a sizeable plot for them as a mountain mission was advanced. Wilbur looked on it with some interest. "No matter what is done with these people," he said, "they will be better off. They have nothing to lose."

Ulster County Highway Work Planned For 1932

Program Calls For Work on 16 Roads, One Being a New Project—About $354,290.90 Will Be Spent—Kerkhous-Gardiner Part 2 Route, Only New Project—List of Roads Now Under Construction Which Will Be Completed So Far As Funds Available Will Permit.

Notables to Appear At Annual Meeting Of Historical Society

Plans are being made for the June meeting of the Ulster County Historical Society, which will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel in this city on Friday, June 3. There will be a literary session beginning at 11:30 a. m. and luncheon will be served at 1 p. m.

Speakers at the literary session and the luncheon will present subjects that are of far more than local interest. The Hon. Poultney Bigelow of Malden-on-Hudson in a carefully prepared paper will tell some of the stirring incidents in the life of his father, the Hon. John Bigelow, and will stress the little known story of how John Bigelow prevented Napoleon III from assisting Jefferson Davis. The Hon. John Bigelow was appointed Ambassador to France by President Lincoln. His work at the court of Napoleon III and throughout France was of far-reaching effect, and through his efforts Continental Europe refused to aid the Confederacy. Mr. Bigelow lived to be 94 years of age. His death occurred in 1911. His son occupies the Bigelow Homestead at Malden-on-Hudson.

In a paper that promises to be of unusual charm, Miss Mary Janson DuBois of this city will describe "The Colonial Woman in Ulster County History." Miss DuBois has made an intensive study of many Ulster county women of the Colonial period and her paper will be of a comprehensive nature. The subject upon which Miss DuBois writes never has been chosen by any other Ulster county writer or student.

One of the luncheon speakers will be Miss Ellen LaMotte of Stone Ridge, whose study of the optimism trade has made her an authority upon that subject. Miss LaMotte, a native of the British Lion's tail, so hard and so often that she became persona non grata to that nation. Among the books of which she is the author, the most widely known is "Peking Dust." She has been an active participant in the various General conferences that were called to deal with the subject of the optimism trade, and its suppression, and her talk at the historical society luncheon will be of surpassing interest.

Further details concerning the meeting and luncheon will be announced later. Judge Hasbrouck, president of the society, will preside at the literary session. Judge Clearwater, honorary president, will preside at the luncheon. The committee on program is composed of Edward L. Merritt, chairman; Judge Clearwater, Mrs. Frank J. LeFevre of New Paltz, Miss Mary Jansen DuBois and Judge Hasbrouck.

Several Hurt In Automobile Crash

The sheriff's office was called to investigate an automobile accident which took place on the Ellenville-Kingston road, near the curve just west of the Rock School, between Stone Ridge and Tompkins' garage Saturday night.

Several persons were injured when the Buick sedan driven by Mrs. Harry Miller of 63 Broadway, coming toward Kingston, collided with a coupe driven by Peter Roosa of Stickles avenue, Kingston, which was headed toward Ellenville. With Roosa was his wife and riding in the rumble seat were his brother and Roy Humbacher of 124 East 225th street, New York city, the latter having just come up from the city an hour or so before.

The Roosa car was thrown into the ditch and overturned, placing Mrs. Roosa underneath. She was taken to the home of her mother-in-law at Kripplush-Davis Corners, where she was later attended by Dr. Myers and taken to the Kingston Hospital, suffering from a possible fracture of the hip and internal injuries. Mrs. Roosa sustained a bruise about the knee and her brother was severely on the knee. Mrs. Miller was accompanied by her husband, who was cut slightly about the nose. Glaring headlights were blamed for the collision. No arrests were made.

Fire at The Clove. A frame house, said to be owned by Andrew Colligan and located near St. John's Church, The Clove, was totally destroyed by fire Saturday. The house was unoccupied.

Boy Escaped Unhurt. Joseph A. Graux of 83 South Manor avenue, reported to the police Saturday afternoon that a boy, Robert Williams, of 33 Furnace street, while playing on Furnace street had run into his truck, but that the boy escaped unhurt.

Ulster county's plan for highway work during the season of 1932 calls for work on sixteen roads in the county, fifteen of which are highways upon which work has been commenced and one is a new project. The only new project contemplated this year is on county road No. 77, known as the Kerkhous-Gardiner Part 2 route, project which runs from Kerkhous up the mountain to meet the state construction on the Gardiner-Minnewaska-Kerkhous route.

In the county in 1932 it is expected this program will call for an expenditure of about $354,290.90, the amount of money which it is expected will be available when the state had returned to the county the Motor Vehicle money, gasoline tax money and the state's contribution to match the amount which the county has raised. All the money to be spent this year which is raised by direct tax in the county is the sum of $50,000 which was included in the budget and has already been raised. Thus by raising $50,000 by direct tax in the county the taxpayers will receive a total of over $550,000 in highways.

Treasurer's Balance. At present there is about $78,000 balance in the hands of the county treasurer, much of which was derived from payments coming from motor car owners and which was returned by the state to the county late last year from the gasoline tax and motor vehicle tax funds. There has already been raised $50,000 on the county and the state has matched that amount with approximately the same amount. An estimated return of $27,000 to the county from Motor Vehicle Bureau money and approximately $140,000 returned from the gasoline tax will make up the highway fund, which will take care of the completion of old construction projects, the one new construction project, and also the maintenance of present highways.

Under the schedule adopted Friday evening by the board of supervisors it is estimated that the Kerkhous new project will cost $40,000, the maintenance fund has been fixed at $80,000 and the completion of projects now under way will cost $233,190.

Road Schedule. The county roads which are now under construction and which will be completed this year so far as funds available will permit, are: West Hurley-Zena road, No. 52, $15,000; New Paltz-Ireland Corners road, No. 62, $30,000; Kripplush-Davis Corners road, No. 63, $24,000; Blue Mountain-Saxton road, No. 64, $15,000; Eddyville-DeWitt Mill road, No. 65, $10,000; Maverick road, No. 66, $13,200; appropriation, $14,000, and 1931 balance of $6,500, $19,500; Milton Turnpike, No. 68, 1932 appropriation $16,000, and 1931 balance $10,300, $26,300; Pine Hill-Birch Creek road, No. 71, 1932 appropriation $15,000, and 1931 balance of $6,000, $21,000; Sawkill-Zena road, No. 75, $20,000; Samsonville - Kerkhous road, No. 76, 1932 appropriation $17,000, and 1931 balance of $7,700, $24,700; Atwood Hill road, No. 14, 1931 balance, $2,600; Centerville-Bailley Gap, No. 67, and Merritt's Corners road, No. 55, 1931 balance, $6,000; Plover Heights road, No. 56, $100; Guilford Church-Benton's Corners road, No. 74, 1931 balance, $2,700.

Total to be spent on uncompleted projects $233,190. Estimated amount of money available for highway purposes in 1932. Taking the figures of 1931 as a basis for the motor tax and gasoline revenue and balance carried over from 1931, the estimated sum of $354,290.90.

Fresh Crop of Local Padlocks Ordered

New York, April 29 (Special).— Judge Henry W. Goddard ordered a six months' padlock for the Kelder Hotel, Rosendale, N. Y., following a hearing before him in Federal Court here yesterday. The place was charged with nuisance, sale and possession of liquor. The barroom in three rooms on the ground floor and basement are specified in the closure. Carl Kelder is the proprietor of the hotel. The building is owned by Abraham Kelder. Assistant United States Attorney Earle N.
Dishopp prosecuted the action.

"The Hawk" Padlocked.

A padlock for six months was also decreed by Judge Goddard for "The Hawk," a barroom and cabaret at Jane street, Saugerties, which was charged with sale and possession of liquor and public nuisance. Harry Becker is the proprietor of the place and Michael Kelley owner of the realty. Agents arrested Becker there in November.

Kingston Restaurant To Be Bonded.

By an order to be signed by Judge Goddard following testimony taken in Federal Court here yesterday, the delicatessen and restaurant at 72
Broadway, Kingston, will be subject to search at will for a period of one year by prohibition agents who will not require a search warrant. The court also ordered that a bond of $500 be filed by the owner of the property, Jacob Siller, that no further violations will occur on the premises. Isaac Strawgate is the proprietor of the place. He was arrested in December for sale and possession and pleaded guilty on February 8. His fine was $50.

New Paltz Hotel Padlocked

A six months' padlock was ordered in Federal Court here yesterday for the New Paltz Hotel, New Paltz, N.
Y., which is conducted by Warren S.
Tamney. The building is owned by Tamney. Testimony was taken briefly before Judge Henry Goddard, who consented to a reduction of the one year's padlock requested originally to six months on the motion of the district attorney.

The place was raided by dry agents in January. Charges of nuisance, sale and possession were later preferred.

Consents to Ellenville Padlock

A consent decree to padlock the two rooms and basement of the Post Office Building at Canal street, Ellenville, which were used as a barroom, was entered before Judge Henry Goddard in Federal Court here yesterday. The place will be closed for six months instead of a year as originally asked by the district attorney.

The charges against the proprietor, August Schieffer, were nuisance, sale and possession. The Wayside Holding Company owns the building.

SECTIONAL RIVALRY TRACED IN DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL SITUATION

By BYRON PRICE

(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

One of the most graphic ways of analyzing the Democratic presidential situation is to spread out a map of the United States, and observe what a striking pattern of sectional rivalry has been traced by the events of recent weeks.

Roughly, the shadow cast by the movement of Franklin D. Roosevelt now blankets west and south, with edgings that lap over into the rural regions elsewhere, but skirt sharply around the great cities.

The corresponding outline of the anti-Roosevelt strength, as it appears since the April 26 primaries, encompasses the east and northeast, reaching south as far as Maryland and spilling over westward into the metropolitan sections of Pennsylvania.

There are some gaps. In the east,
Roosevelt has Maine and New Hampshire, and he claims rural upstate
New York. In the south and west, Illinois, Ohio, Texas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Virginia are standing out for favorite sons.

These exceptions do not greatly mar the symmetry of the general picture, however, especially since no one knows how many of the gaps may prove extremely unstable and of temporary character.

Challenge and Defiance.

This study in geographical contrast has a deep significance. In a large sense the curving lines across the map mark out a fundamental division of thought among party leaders.

Through the effort they spent and the great success they attained for Al Smith in Massachusetts and the populous centers of Pennsylvania, the stop-Roosevelt leaders, were attempting to say, in effect, to the east and south:

"Roosevelt has no pulling power in the east or in the large cities. If you insist upon nominating him, you must do so at your own peril, and your country precincts must expect to carry the load in the election."

If the eastern and southern politicians now continue in the course they have adopted—as most of them expect to do—they will be replying, in effect, as follows:

"We are not as concerned as you are about your precious eastern and city trend. The east is Republican anyway, and even Smith could not swing it in 1928. The south and the west elected Wilson in 1916, without the east, and if necessary they can elect Roosevelt in 1932."

This, of course, is putting it a little baldly on both sides. If Roosevelt is nominated, doubtless the responsible leaders of the eastern states will make a real effort to deliver, and their western and southern brethren will devoutly wish them success.

In general terms, however, what is going on for the present is a process of challenge and defiance, based as much on sectional interest as on the personalities of the candidates.

City-Country Line Drawn.

This may not be exactly what Smith had in mind when he accused Roosevelt of seeking to set class against class, but it doubtless is a part of the same picture.

The primary results in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania show that in such centers as Boston and Philadelphia a great many of the Roosevelt eulogized "little men"—the textile worker, the rock-hand and the small home owner—must have voted for Smith.

The returns draw a line more directly between country and city than between rich and poor. More broadly, the country over, the tendency is to put into one camp the farmer and those western and southern cities which are dependent chiefly on agriculture and into the other camp the industrial east and the laboring classes which are dependent on industry.

It is open to dispute whether either side actually is attempting to do that, but the election returns speak loudly as to what is being accomplished.

What Smith Meant.

The great apprehension of some party leaders has been that Roosevelt's very popularity in the west and south would hurt him irreparably in the east; would frighten business and so fill up the treasury of the Republican party.

Whether that is true and whether if true it is giving a fatal turn to Democratic fortunes remains to be seen, but the mere existence of that fear shows what Smith meant when he said Massachusetts had put a "chock" under the Roosevelt bandwagon.

Analysis

"What is marriage but a rest between two romances?" has been asked.
If intended as a riddle, the answer is:
"If the married are properly mated it is a refuge in the storms of life and an anchorage for age." All depends on the "it."

POLITICS FOR COLLEGE FOLK

Mayor Walker of New York, in an interview published recently in the Yale Daily News, was quoted as saying: "No finer career of usefulness is open to the university graduate today than service in the administration of public affairs." It is an interesting comment, all things considered. The Yale News seems to be seriously concerned with this matter of the college man in politics. In an editorial not long ago, it remarked that the "heat men" would stay out of politics, because "it's just too dirty." That moved a New York newspaper to ask the editors of a number of prominent college dailies to express opinions on the same subject.

A few of the college editors protested, but most of them agreed that the decent man could not get very far in politics as a career, and stay decent. The daily Princetonian said college men "feel the futility of trying to achieve fundamental improvement against thoroughly and extensively organized forces which support the existing evils." No one came forward with any other assumption than that a decent man in politics would be something of a phenomenon.

All this is discouraging. It conveys an impression that college undergraduates are not merely awake to the faults of our political life today, but are calmly resigned to them, hopeless of making any change or of bettering conditions, apparently not interested in going into the game with the clear purpose of cleaning it up. Yet if the present generation of college men and women took up political careers, as they came of age, with the true meaning of "politics" in mind and with as much idealism and persistence as are put into social service and other respected careers, would they not be able to accomplish fine things? One cannot help wishing they would try it in large enough numbers to make their presence felt in local, state and federal governments.

THE "GROWN UP" PRINCESS

The little English princess who is now six-going-on-seven years old certainly had a happy birthday, what with the new pony from her royal granddad and the privilege of presiding at her own birthday tea party. She seems to have been in error, however, when she told the world in general that she was grown up now.

An enterprising reporter in the United States set about asking six-year-olds on this side of the Atlantic whether a person was really grown up at that age, and the answers were all scornful negatives. The little girls knew pretty much what they wanted to do when they should really be "grown up"—along in their teens—and they agreed that a new pony would be very nice, indeed. Still, they remained realistic about their present social status.

The youngster who says, "But I'm big now!" during a family debate on privileges or obedience is quite willing to admit youth under less strained circumstances. Even Princess Betty, on some less important day, probably could be heard remarking, "When I'm grown up." Birthdays are very unusual occasions, and one must admit that six years is a lot more grown up than six.

BRITISH TARIFF RATES

The new tariff rates announced by the British government, ranging from 29 to 33 per cent, make one of the highest foreign tariff walls that American trade seeks to surmount. And the worst of it is that those walls have been erected by America's best customer. The average rate, reckoning all goods together, free and taxed, is estimated to be higher now than the American average.

The reason given for this extreme reversal of British policy is that the British people need to defend their markets and "live at home." It is difficult, however, to believe that there is not behind this trade-killing spirit of retaliation against the United States and a desire to teach this country a lesson. It is not unlikely that when an international movement begins for customs disarmament, as it will inevitably sooner or later, Britain will be found as willing to reduce tariff rates as she has been to reduce armament. Many of these rates are probably for trading purposes. The same thing may be true of high rates in France and other countries.

Ely Culbertson, the celebrated contract bridge expert, tells President Hoover that the latter would certainly be re-elected if he could pass a law abolishing "kibitzers." Maybe so, but Mr. Culbertson probably exaggerates the number of voters represented by the serious bridge players, or else minimizes the number of kibitzers, actual and potential. When you get right down to facts, are we not a nation of kibitzers? Look at the millions of bystanders who are looking on at the political game in Washington and telling the players what to do. And the worst of it is, from the players' viewpoint, every blamed one of them thinks he has a constitutional and divine right to butt in.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

BY James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act)

THE LARGE INTESTINE

The large intestine, that is the large part of the food canal, is called the colon. It begins just about at the point where you know your appendix lies, on the lower right side of the abdomen.

From this point it goes up the right side of the abdomen, then across the abdomen to the left side a little below the stomach. It makes a sharp turn downward and continues downward on left side, to the point where its wastes leave the body.

Now anywhere along this tube or intestine trouble can arise. As it has to make an S turn where it starts, a sharp turn up on right side where it goes over to the left side, an even sharper turn as it turns downward at left side, and another S turn at lower left side, you can understand why pain arises at these four points when there is a large amount of gas in the intestine.

If in addition to these four turns there should be a little loop or kink anywhere along the intestine, pain would result due to the gas pressure. Sometimes there are troubles other than gas formation—kinks, adhesions, growths, inflammation, and other conditions.

Instead of giving the barium meal by mouth and waiting for it to get down into large intestine, this barium meal or enema is now injected into the large intestine.

Dr. P. C. Schneebelen, St. Louis, points out that this method gives a better view of the pouch and curvature at lower left side, shows whether the pouch itself is doing its work properly; shows up any obstruction or any little defects of the lining of the colon; will readily show the effects of any treatment that has been given.

This is certainly a convenient and rapid method of learning much about the condition of the large intestine.

If there appears to be no real disease or growth there, the pain and distress may be due to what is called "irritable colon," usually due to faulty health habits of the patient who in trying to use a "rough" diet to correct or prevent constipation uses so much rough food that the intestine becomes irritable, spasms occur which prevent passage of waste, and pain and inflammation result.

"The treatment naturally is soft foods—meal, chicken, fish, eggs, cream, butter, well cooked cereals, strained soups, stewed fruits, and simple desserts."

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO

May 1, 1912—Mrs. Sylvester H. Newcomb died in Albany.

Mrs. Louis F. Kleeber died in Saugerties.

Monsieur Joseph Mooney injured in New York when taxi he was in skidded into a touring car.

May 2, 1912—Uptown Merchants growing weary of waiting for consolidation of Citizens Standard and New York Telephone Companies had the Standard telephones removed from their stores.

Mrs. Andrew Stelitz died on Spring street.

Peter V. Osterhout, a Civil War veteran, died at his home in Shandaken.

May 1, 1922—Mayor Crane reappointed Harry H. Flemming and Frank W. Thompson as members of education board.

James F. Heerey, manager of employment bureau of Ulen Construction Company, found dead in bed at his boarding house on TenBroeck avenue. Death was due to heart failure.

William Trainum and Miss Minnie McPhail married.

May 2, 1922—City's public market opened on Cornell street.

Public Works Board decided old bridge over Esopus creek at the end of Washington avenue, should be replaced with a new bridge.

Board of Public Works decided to eliminate curb gas pumps on Broadway, and also refused permission to install gas pumps on Wurts and McEntee streets.

Mrs. John T. Lyon died in Port Jervis.

You Can't Marry

by Julia Chitt-Adams

Chapter 12
 MRS. TOWNSEND
 "Will that be all, miss?"
 "Yes," said George loudly.
 "That will be all and thank you very much. Mrs. Hale, for putting in such a magnificent day's work. Here's a week's money and a robe—see you see I've said that I only part with you because I need someone who can come for the whole day and cook me a late dinner."

"Thank you, miss. I'm sure I quite understand," Mrs. Hale folded up the reference and put it with the money into her worn purse. Her button-brown eyes roved towards the little room that had been a mere "glory-hole" and was now brave with washed paint, stained floor and furniture taken from George's room.

"It's wonderful what a difference some kinds of changes makes to a place," said Mrs. Hale; and with a sly little smile she pattered out of the tiny hall.

George flushed, shrugged, gathered up the curtain material and went into her own room. There had been "some kinds of changes" here, too. The disputed velvet curtain had been sewn and hung by Jenny after all, and at top speed; there was a whole new suite of furniture, fashioned from an ash-grain wood with a lovely, swirling grain in it and inlaid with ebony.

On the bed were piled boxes and boxes and boxes, just arrived; all of a silvery striped cardboard; all tied with jade-colored string; all stamped "Parfette."

Her trousseau, George had not yet dared tell Jenny about it. Only last night she had agreed that she needed nothing but a new hat for her wedding. This morning, on her way to City Hall she had torn into Parfette's see about it—and perhaps just a bag to go with it—and by all evil chances madame had shown her an ensemble from a cancelled outfit. "Made for Ghivra Moule's first season but her mother has died and only the white tennis dresses can be used. I'm taking everything else off her hands. Your measurements exactly, Miss Revel, your coloring, your initial on the finger! And I would make a certain reduction."

It was not, in the end, a reduction worth mentioning; and madame would have liked a rather larger check on account. But, thank Heaven, the salary would cover it all in the end!—that exceptional salary for that exceptional job.

She went humming into the living room. She had had the sense to leave the room much as it always was; a cheerful, chintzy muddle. On a table now was the sewing-machine Jenny had borrowed from the janitor's niece; the telephone stood amidst a litter of scissors, cutlery, rings and tape. Poor little Jenny, how exhausted she had looked when she had finally crept off an hour ago to the hotel. Better ring up, presently, and see if she were all right. It would have been kinder, perhaps, to keep her here for the night; but this was one of the rare occasions in her life when George definitely wanted to be alone.

She laughed aloud and stretched her arms above her head, glorying in her 25 years. A wonderful age! At 25 one was so clear-sighted, so capable, so keen. One was so strong! Last night, long after Jenny slept, she had sat planning and arranging; and this morning, before Jenny was awake, she had made a start on the work to be done by Mrs. Hale. Then off to do her hot-foot shopping—money poured recklessly out so that she might have the best and have it packed and delivered immediately!

Heaven, what she had spent! And after all that royal spending had come the wedding—and the accident. She put a hand to her temple—the bruise hurt, but only when she touched it; and her head, ached but positively swooped up! The fall tide of life swept up in her veins and flooded into her triumphant heart. How right she had been! "What happened?"

 "I noticed your cousin wasn't wearing a wedding ring," the doctor says when George denials being married. What does he suspect!

George laughed. It was a quite spontaneous laugh, in a sense, because there really was something laughable in the way fate was striking the song of triumph from her lips. Then she realized that none could be sure which of the two girls in the car had been the bride. And so long as people weren't sure—

"I suppose someone from the City Hall gossiped," she said and was proud of the indifference in her voice.
 "Probably. But what I really came about, Mrs. Townsend, was to have a chat about your husband. About his health. I'm afraid he's going to be a bit of an invalid for a while."

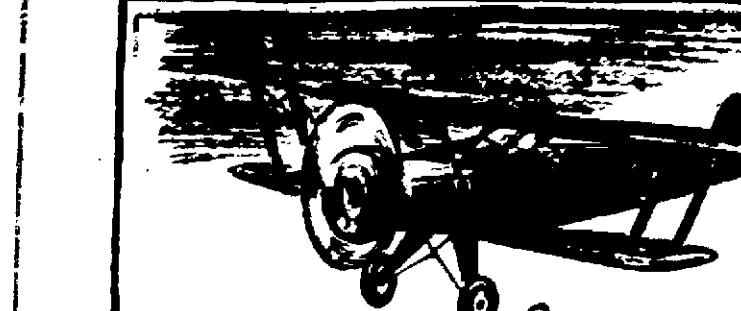

George lit a cigarette. She leaned rather heavily against the back of a chair—the deep leather chair that she had bought for Eddie. She watched her spiral of smoke as it curled up to the ceiling. "Please go on," she requested.
 "What is the matter with poor old Eddie, beyond his cuts and bruises?"

"A good deal. First of all, according to Dalling—the hospital doctor—Townsend's nerves are in a pretty bad way."
 "How d'you mean—nerves? I never thought he had any!"
 "That's a mistake commonly made about men of Townsend's temperament. They themselves will tell you that they've no nerves, when what they really mean is that they've no imagination. So long as they're all right, they always will be all right, they think. They feel sure of themselves. Once they've crashed, their whole nervous system is affected."

"But Eddie never has crashed."
 "He crashed this morning. In that car."

CAN ADD FASTER THAN AN ADDING MACHINE...

Flying 226 feet below sea level, as well as over the highest spot and through the hottest and coldest temperatures in the United States, were all recently accomplished within a few minutes by six planes of the Los Angeles California National Guard, led by Capt. Geo. C. Sherwood.

First the planes circled 300 feet above Mt. Whitney, which has an altitude of 14,956 feet, and is the highest point in the country. Sweeping a short distance southeast, they dropped far below to scorching Death Valley, which is 276 feet beneath the level of the sea, and flew within 50 feet of the burning sands.

The wooden box shown above, as constructed by Walter A. Ealing, appears difficult enough to make, but it would be more difficult still to take it apart without breaking it. No nails, wooden pegs or glue were used.

In holding the sides together... the sides were inserted after it had been soaked in water and compressed in a vise. When it dried, the sides resumed its former shape.

CAN ADD FASTER THAN AN ADDING MACHINE...

Flying 226 feet below sea level, as well as over the highest spot and through the hottest and coldest temperatures in the United States, were all recently accomplished within a few minutes by six planes of the Los Angeles California National Guard, led by Capt. Geo. C. Sherwood.

First the planes circled 300 feet above Mt. Whitney, which has an altitude of 14,956 feet, and is the highest point in the country. Sweeping a short distance southeast, they dropped far below to scorching Death Valley, which is 276 feet beneath the level of the sea, and flew within 50 feet of the burning sands.

The wooden box shown above, as constructed by Walter A. Ealing, appears difficult enough to make, but it would be more difficult still to take it apart without breaking it. No nails, wooden pegs or glue were used.

In holding the sides together... the sides were inserted after it had been soaked in water and compressed in a vise. When it dried, the sides resumed its former shape.

FASHIONS by ELEANOR GUNN

Typical of the Young Set's Preferences

Copyright, 1932, by Fairchild

A tailored evening jacket which buttons at the back is sketched at upper left. It is in blue crinkly fabric. A favorite evening silhouette is illustrated at lower center. It has a high collar and a full skirt. A waist-length velvet in the pleated crepe of the dress. At right, a pastel pique evening jacket with short puffed sleeves is typical of the youthful evening wrap for spring. The white satin evening dress shown at lower left has a winding in pique.

Up to the Neck in Fabrics

New York — The suit, either strictly tailored and developed in mannish woollens, or in softer versions and softer fabrics, leads bravely off in the race for spring supremacy. It has rivals, none the less, and there is no more formidable one than the satin dress over which one may wear a coat or not as one sees fit.

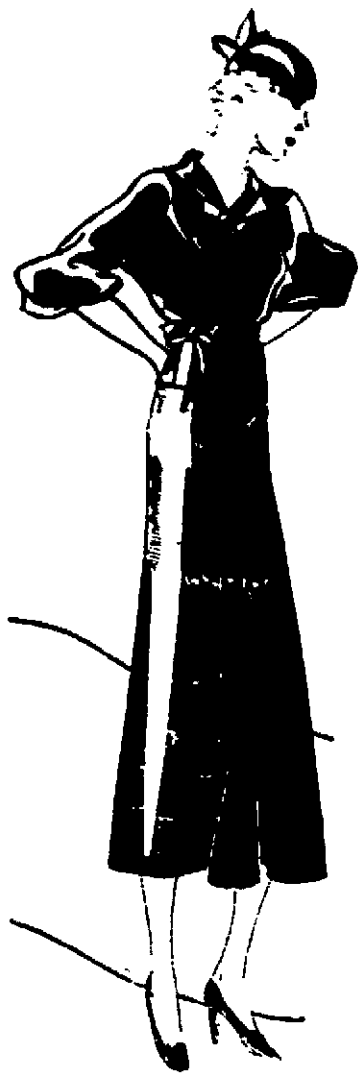

It being a navy-blue spring according to all authorities both here and elsewhere, what more natural than that the satin dress should make its re-entry into the mode in navy? Here it is, or rather one version of it. You are not likely to overlook either the high-cut bodice or the short sleeves. This dress is self-trimmed, as is one tendency in an increasing number of good-looking frocks.

There are so many prize-winning examples of the high-cut bodice that one feels confident in it as a coming fashion if not a current one. A single button fastening is sufficient for some versions, a bow for others. There are, of course, scarf arrangements capable of several adjustments, and there may or may not be a little turn-over collar, or even a narrow side pleating which is set in like a ruche.

The repeated and effective use of lace on dresses intended for a day in town is one of the interests of the season. In many cases the lace is dyed to match the frock or is in a dark tone blending with it. There is, for instance, a costume by Molyneux of the jacket type that is developed in a soft woolen and trimmed rather unexpectedly with lace. Lace is used in many ways, even as an edging to a skirt, but is most frequently confined to the bodice section. There are yokes, vestees, epaulettes, bibs, and collar-and-cuff sets of lace; also lapels and jabots and scarfs, or scarf ends.

The younger set are immensely taken with the idea of wearing a ribbon bow to the left of the chin. This is frequently a wide taffeta ribbon, either striped or plaid or spotted, and sometimes it is plain, in which case white leads. Later, one will find crisp white organdie used in the same way.

This model is done in navy blue satin, and has interesting bodice detail, with points important.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

The white dress topped by a full-length navy coat is to be a favored summer costume.

The revival of the capelet coat in Paris fashions is interesting.

A display of violet sportswear is especially effective in velvety knits.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

7499

A Popular Youthful Style.

7499. Very simple and exceedingly attractive is this little model, with the soft fichu, and pleasing peplum. The skirt is cut with modified flare in approved fashion. Cotton prints are suggested for this style, or printed chiffon or silk. As pictured printed lawn was used, in green and white tones on a green background. Blue crepe with white organdy for the fichu is also suggested.

Designed in 3 sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 will require 4 1/2 yards of 30 inch material. The fichu of contrasting material will require 3/4 yard of 35 inch material. One could make the dress in 35 inch material without the fichu; for this it will require 3 1/2 yards. The width at the lower edge with fullness extended is 2 1/4 yard.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Higher Things Than Money

Money is only part of our compensation for life's labor. True, money is necessary for one's physical existence. But it never has and never will buy the finer things of life. Do something well, and you will find joy in the heart as well as in the pay envelope.—Grit.

HIGH FALLS HOME

BUREAU ACTIVITIES

High Falls, May 2—The High Falls Home Bureau met with Mrs. Oscar Church Monday afternoon, April 25. There were twelve members present: Mrs. O. Church, Mrs. Ham, Mrs. Snyder, Mrs. Perry, Mrs. P. Church, Mrs. Quick, Mrs. A. Atkins, Mrs. W. Atkins, Mrs. Hart, Mrs. van Laer, Mrs. Barrett and Mrs. Meyers, also one visitor, Mrs. Snow.

An important business meeting was held. The officers were re-elected for another year. Mrs. Ham, who has been a faithful and efficient chairman, was unanimously elected to continue her good work. The meeting adjourned at four o'clock, after which delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

On Tuesday afternoon, May 3, members and visitors will meet at the home of Mrs. Quick. Miss Nance, county agent, will be present to discuss the program for the coming year. Members and homemakers are urged to be present as it is felt that the community should take advantage of some of the best projects, which will be given in the county another year.

HIGH FALLS.

Hibb Falls, May 2—The Missionary meeting held at the home of Miss Jessie Snyder last Thursday afternoon, was well attended. The re-elected officers are: President, Mrs. Oscar Church; vice-president, Mrs. Thomas Snyder; secretary, Mrs. J. M. Barnhart; treasurer, Miss Kate Krom. This society was organized in 1886 by Mrs. W. H. Vroom, the pastor's wife, and has been most active all these 46 years. The members were very glad to have Miss Florence Vroom present at this meeting. All women are cordially invited to attend the meeting.

Miss Helen Titus of Kingston and her sister called on Mrs. S. E. Sheeley and Miss Mary C. Van Wageningen on Thursday. They were born and spent their childhood in Bruceville, living in one of the houses on the James H. Van Demark property, all buildings now having been torn down. But they had always visited at the Charles Hardenbergh home, now occupied by John Ayers, and he kindly permitted them to go through the place of so many fond memories.

Mrs. John Eagan of Weehawken, N. J., called on relatives here Thursday afternoon.

The Ladies' Aid will meet with Mrs. W. L. Krom next Thursday at 8 o'clock, standard time. All members urged to be present.

Crushed stone has been placed on Church street and the dust arising from same is already affecting the buildings. The owners of property are hoping this will be soon effectually covered with oil, as was done last year.

Mrs. Martha Sheeley, the Misses Elizabeth and Ruth DuMont, and Mrs. Flossie DuMont were dinner guests at the Raymond La Lawrence home. Accord on Monday evening.

GIRL SCOUT LEADERS TO ATTEND REGION CONFERENCE

The director of the Ulster County Girl Scouts, Miss Mildred H. Eaton, will leave on Wednesday for Atlantic City, N. J., where the Girl Scout leaders from New York and New Jersey will meet at the Hotel Chelsea May 5-7 for their annual regional conference of the "Hendrick Hudson" Region. Problems common to all parts of the region will be discussed at the conference, which is held yearly for the purpose of exchanging ideas on policies and programs and laying plans for the coming 12 months. The rate at which Girl Scouts are increasing in numbers and extending their activities makes this one of the most important conferences ever held in the Hendrick Hudson Region.

Members of the National Girl Scout board of directors, who will attend the conference include Mrs.

"Does surprising amount of work," says Mrs. M. Palumbo of Buffalo

THE results I get with Rinso are astonishing. And it's really surprising how little washing for my family of 6, but I did the dishes 12 times and washed the floors besides—all with one big box of Rinso. This is my washing:

2 bed spreads	8 pcs. underwear	4 pcs. children's underwear
4 dresses	2 nightgowns	2 children's nightgowns
6 blouses	2 button coats	4 aprons
6 sweaters	6 face cloths	3 house dresses
20 handkerchiefs	4 sheets	2 pairs curtains
6 pairs children's stockings	3 table cloths
2 nightgowns	12 dish towels
5 shirts	3 pairs pajamas
	8 pairs socks

A whole Rinso glow stick. Try it. See how much work one big box will do for you.

New Candy Cases In W. T. Grant Store

A new and sanitary candy department has been added to the W. T. Grant department store on Wall street with the installation of several candy cases, the most modern that could be obtained. These large cases, sanitary in every detail, have been placed in the front part of the Grant store, and are already doing a profitable business. Each case is finished in tarnish proof Monel metal. The bottom of each case is one solid piece of this rust proof metal, which prevents the accumulation of sugar and germ breeding wastes in the crack and crevices, and each case is also easily cleanable.

The new department was necessitated by the enormous increase in sales at the store, which rendered the old equipment inadequate in handling the increased business, according to E. T. Lewis, manager of the local store. The addition of this new department will speed up the service to customers, in addition to providing fresh candies, along with the most sanitary means available of dispensing them to the public.

More Vulgarism

The word "his'n" is a vulgarism that is commonly used by uneducated persons in the United States and other English-speaking countries. It is not correct English, and it probably started in one of the English counties. There are many peculiar dialects spoken in different parts of England.

You're OUT!

In baseball or business "you're out" when competitors beat you to it and you get there too late—you're out time and traveling expense—you're out a sale—you're out a profit.

Many business organizations are using the telephone to get there first; to get salesmen over the territory more often and multiply their contacts with customers; to make time and money-saving appointments; to follow up credits and collections.

A specialty manufacturer found that they were able to increase the number of daily contacts of each salesman from 12 to 75 by using a telephone sales plan.

St Joseph's Holy Name Breakfast

The annual communion breakfast of St. Joseph's Holy Name Society was held Sunday morning in the Hotel Stateman, following the 8 o'clock Mass at the church. There were about 250 at the breakfast to hear Arthur J. W. Hilly, corporation counsel of New York city, and several other speakers dwell on subjects of interest to Holy Name men.

President William B. Martin, following the breakfast, called the gathering to order for the speaking program. He first presented Mayor Eugene B. Carey, past president of the Holy Name, who acted as toastmaster. Both Mr. Martin and Mr. Carey congratulated the men upon their fine turnout.

The Rev. Edmund Burke, spiritual director of the society, was the first speaker. His message was one stressing the need of religion in the world today. Father Burke said there was a spiritual depression as well as an economic and said the former had a great bearing on the latter condition.

Attorney Hilly, the guest speaker, also spoke along the same lines as Father Burke, going into history to illustrate that without God's guidance nations perish and people fall in the purpose for which they were created. He said there was much need of religion in the world today and urged the Holy Name men to adhere to the principles of their society.

Other speakers were Sidney S. Marks, president of St. Mary's Holy Name Society, and Allen A. Baker, grand knight of Kingston Council, 275, Knights of Columbus. Both of these men paid tribute to the late Frank P. Messinger, a past president of St. Joseph's Holy Name, citing him as an example of one who lived up to the teachings of the church and the society in dealing with his fellowmen. The entire assemblage, rose and paid silent tribute to Mr. Messinger at the suggestion of Father Burke.

Prior to closing President Martin outlined plans for attending the big Holy Name rally in New York city on June 12, which was referred to by the other speakers as an event that will be an outstanding one in the history of the society.

Speakers Chosen For H. S. Commencement

The 10 commencement speakers of the Kingston High School Senior Class were selected Friday, as the second report card period came to a close, which enabled their work for the four years to be determined by average.

Allen Lewis, president of the Senior Class was the highest. He will be class valedictorian and Beate Koehling, salutatorian.

The other eight speakers are: Rebecca Perlman, Rose Kohan, Lucille Elston, Marie Ward, Alfred Munier, Harry Gold, Robert Hazenbush, and Aaron Dornbusch.

Dr. Henry Noble MacCracken, president of Vassar College, will be the main speaker of commencement. The graduation exercises fall on Tuesday evening, June 28.

Sunday evening, June 26, will be Baccalaureate at which the Rev. O. E. Brandt, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, will deliver the address.

Monday evening, June 27, will be the Class Day exercises.

CRITICS CONSIDER "NEW MUSIC" AT CONVENTION

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., May 2. (AP)—The first annual American Music Festival over, composers and critics who since Saturday had been guests of Yaddo turned today to consideration of the "new music," what it means and what must be done to win it the favor of the public.

The music festival adjourned last night after a series of concerts in which the newest of modern music was played by pianists, violinists and a flutist, and songs representative of the "new music" were sung for the benefit of a distinguished audience of critics, college professors and music patrons.

The climax of the festival was an informal meeting in palatial Yaddo, former home of the late Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Trask, at which the modern composers took the opportunity to strike back at reviewers who have failed to find merit in the "new music" to music generally what cubism is to art.

News of Today In Kingston

A tree was planted on the lawn of Kingston High School in memory of the former Superintendent of Kingston Schools, Dr. Myron J. Michael. The ceremony took place Friday afternoon after the school session.

The students gathered about the spot where the elm was planted and Superintendent of Schools Van Lagen spoke briefly on the love Dr. Michael had for trees and the beauty of nature in general. Dr. Michael often spent the summer in the Adirondack Mountains, where he had a camp on a beautiful lake.

At the base of this elm will be placed a granite slab on which will be the name of the deceased to whom the tree is dedicated. The slab is being presented by the Bryne Brothers.

The tree was bought by the students who took up a voluntary collection, to which each was asked to give a penny.

In the assembly period of the morning, the biology department arranged a program under the direction of Miss Beattie. Arbor Day was well observed at Kingston High School.

Talking of trees on the high school campus, there were six planted there a few years ago in honor of the six boys who were killed in the World War. Recently one of these trees died and it has not been replaced as yet.

In memory of these heroes stand the elms, at the base of which lies a granite slab which bears their name. These trees are dedicated to the memory of:

Leonard E. Woodrow
Audrey D. Arust
John A. Joyce
Llyones G. French
J. Geoffrey Strugnell
Percy T. Keator

There's nothing that carries the melody of spring more plainly than a hurdy-gurdy. One of these music boxes was in town the other night and the air vibrated with the notes of old and new tunes.

Judge Loughran Honored at Troy

Sunday's edition of the Troy Sunday Observer contains a two column account of a testimonial dinner given to Judge Loughran Saturday night by the Rensselaer County Bar Association at the Troy Club. Judge Kavanagh, president of the association, in introducing Judge Loughran said:

"Justice Loughran has held court in every county of the judicial district with the exception of Greene, and in all of these it has been the universal opinion of lawyers, jurists and citizens that he is an able jurist, thoroughly honest and strictly impartial. He fills nobly the important task that is his as a justice of the Supreme Court."

"Justice Loughran has just completed his first trial term in Rensselaer county, and we who have observed him are happy to say that he has made a splendid impression. Although he is a resident of Kingston, we may feel that we have some claim upon him from the fact that his mother was a native of Troy."

The jurist was given a splendid ovation when introduced. Seated at the speakers' table were County Judge James F. Bearton, John T. Norton, Wesley O. Howard, Justice Loughran, City Judge Kavanagh, Frederick E. Draper, chairman of the arrangements committee, James V. Coffey and Surrogate Wager.

"Home Use" of Gas and Electricity Is Aid

Albany, N. Y., May 2 (AP)—"Home use" of gas and electricity has saved the state's utility companies during the present depression, the Public Service Commission finds. Most of the companies are recognizing the value of the residential consumer. Its annual report says, and have cut their residential rates below the commercial rates.

Reductions totaling $7,400,000 annually were made during 1931, it said. Some companies find it difficult to reduce rates, it reported, because overcapitalization will not permit them to earn interest and dividends on the excessive amount of stock at lower rates.

Rural electrification is helping the electric companies, it said. Rockland county leads with 79.5 per cent of its farms electric consumers. Steuben county is at the bottom of the rural electrification list with 8.3 per cent of its farms electrified.

The commission said the state now has about 3,000,000 telephones, nine per cent of the world's total. Discussing truck and bus competition to the railroads, it expressed confidence that the railroads will continue to handle "long haul" traffic, with more of the short haul going to trucks and buses. Outside of New York city there are 257 bus operators using about 8,500 miles of highway.

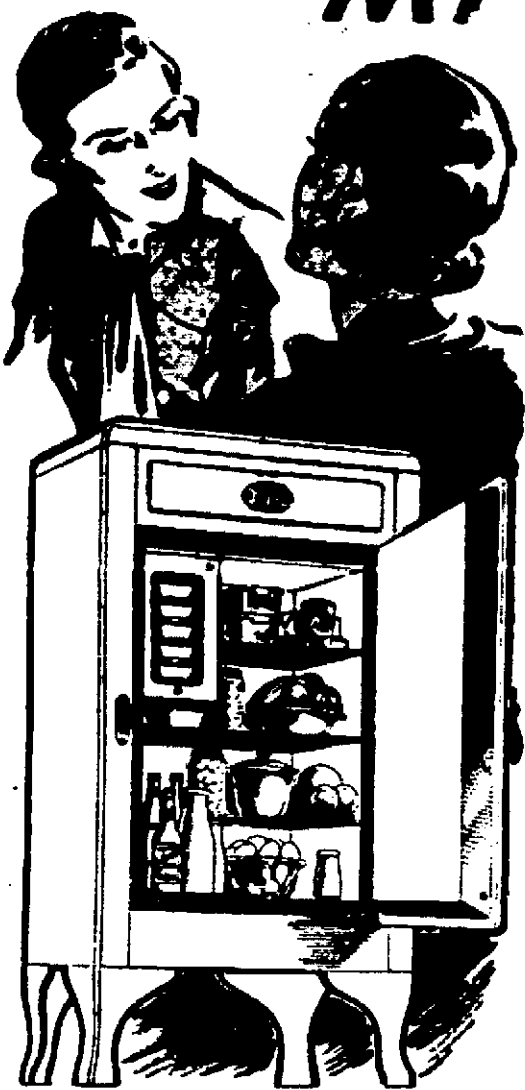

The financial troubles of the railroads necessitated curtailment of the grade crossing elimination program, with only 77 eliminated in 1931.

Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, May 2 (AP)—(State Department of Agriculture and Markets)—Arrivals of old crop carrots from the western part of the state were limited, as was the demand. Price fluctuations were small.

Offerings of nearby grown rhubarb brought 2½-4 cents per bunch, according to size and quality. Receipts of strawberries were moderate. Various varieties from the different states in quart baskets sold from 12c to 28c and in pints, from 8c to 12c.

"MY TRUKOLD pays for itself..."

"John and I figured out last night that our new TruKold really costs us nothing. You see, I can now buy larger quantities of Saturday food specials, because my TruKold keeps foods fresh for almost a week. And what I save on food together with what I formerly spent on ice more than equals the monthly payments. And really, Jane, it is a wonderful machine... and so good looking."

You Too, Can Own a TruKold . . . Only $10 Down and $10 a Month. 30 Days Trial

TruKold is one of the most efficient, most simple electric refrigerators on the market today. Only 3 moving parts—yet it offers 8 freezing speeds. It is all steel—no wood except where hardware fastens. Hardware is chromium plated. The food compartment is lined with porcelain. Shelves are flat wire so dishes won't catch and spill. And note the ice trays—even the smallest size TruKold makes 63 cubes of ice at a time. Furthermore, no other electric refrigerator made has a stronger guarantee. Delivered and installed FREE.

COMING EVENTS
ON THE RADIO

Helen Morgan, musical comedy star, will feature songs from her second great success, "Sweet Adeline," when she makes her debut on the Goodyear Wednesday night program to be heard over Station WEF at 9 p. m., May 4. Miss Morgan has chosen "Why Was I Born," one of the best known numbers from the Jerome Kern score, as her opening solo. Orchestral numbers in a finale of excerpts from "Sweet Adeline" include "The Sun About to Rise" and "Here Am I." Miss Morgan and the Revelers will join in the last number together—"Don't Ever Leave Me." For her other numbers she has selected the George Gershwin song, "The Man I Love," and Ray Henderson's "There I Go Dreaming Again" from "Hot Cha." The Revelers will have "Raguel" and "Can't You Hear Me Callin' Caroline" as their featured numbers.

Will Rogers, star of stage, screen and radio, will be back on the Chrysler Motors-Ziegfeld Radio Show over the Columbia network Sunday, May 8, according to the program's sponsors. The famous humorist's last appearance on the air was April 3, when with Billie Burke and Patricia Ziegfeld he participated in the successful launching of the initial Chrysler-Ziegfeld broadcast. Whether he comes riding into the Los Angeles studio on his favorite polo pony, which the sponsors believe should be named Floating Power, he is sure to have a fresh supply of the well known but friendly jabs to direct at somebody or other.

CIRCUS AT NO. 7 SCHOOL
FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 6

A circus with wild west Indians, clowns, freaks, animals, Hawaiian dancers, pirates, and minstrels is to be held at No. 7 School on Friday, May 6. The circus will open with a parade at 7:30 p. m. Besides the parade there will be six sideshows and a feature minstrel show. The school has been fortunate in obtaining R. Obenaus, John Roberts, E. Lewis and Harold Clayton as its leading participants. Other soloists are Peter Osterhout, Roland Fuller, Gordon Roberts, Billy Hawkes, Jack Nelson and William Whitney. Special dancing will be done by Ruth Britt, Olive Clearwater, Teddy Weyle and Beverly Bonesteel.

About 150 children will take part in the circus. There will be a novelty band of 40 children. The Obenaus trio will furnish special music during the evening.

Kingston-Middle Game In 2-2 Tie As Tilt Is Called

The Game in Sixth When Kingston Scored Its Second Run—Maroon Lost Big Chance to Win in Seventh—Roosa Hits Three Doubles.

A long drawn out ball game that went into 14 innings, Saturday afternoon at the Kingston Fair Grounds, failed to change the standing that was created in the sixth when Kingston came back with a run to tie up the Middle's two scores collected in their half of the sixth. It seemed that the boys would go on indefinitely without scoring so the 2-2 tie was ended by mutual agreement.

It was a fine exhibition of high school baseball. Two good pitchers were pitted against one another and two fine defensive teams battled in what might have just as well been a scoreless tie. As it was neither side was good with the stick. Middletown was just as helpless against Thomas as Kingston was against Wagner.

This Middle southpaw had 25 strikeouts. He allowed six hits and walked five men. Wagner is a boy of slight build and about medium height. To take a look at him one would never think he could survive 14 innings and with his drops and hooks working well.

The only serious hits that were chalked up against him were those of Luke Roosa, Kingston's catcher. Luke had a good day at bat. Out of five official trips to the plate he hit three times and all of these were doubles. One to left, center and right respectively. It was the result of his first double in the sixth, that Kingston scored the tying run. He was the second man to bat in the eighth, and then he hit his second double but died on second base. In the eleventh he hit his third double and in an attempt to steal third was picked off. He was the first man to bat in this inning.

It was the inability of Roosa's teammates to back up his good hitting that lost the game for Kingston. Twice Roosa stood on second and was left standing there.

Kingston Lost Big Chance. The local team practically had the game packed on ice in the seventh. With the bases loaded and no outs the situation was perfect to score in. At least a run might have been collected out of a possible three.

One of the three outs of this inning came when Lamb fanned. Then Ed Burgevin ripped to the plate with orders to hunt and work the old squeeze play. Well, here it all happened.

Wagner tossed one in a little higher than Burgevin thought it to be and the Kingston third baseman was all set to lay a roller down the third base line, when he popped a fly instead, which was taken by Lawrence of the Middle's, third baseman, and Purvis, who had already taken a good lead off the sack was tagged out before he could get back. So a big chance went "boom" into the hands of the Maroon lost its opportunity to win a ball game from Middletown.

The visitors had no chances like this. Thomas kept them well in hand. His endurance was splendid, as was Wagner's. Still throughout the contest Thomas, who appeared to be the stronger of the two, was being led constantly in strikeouts by Wagner.

The game finished up with Thomas having 24 strikeouts. He allowed seven hits and walked by two men. If the Maroon squad would only back up this boy's pitching with good work at bat, the DUSO pennant would be awarded to the Maroon again this year.

Still with all this energy spent, the game ended in a tie and will have to be played at some future date.

K. H. S. Tennis Team Loses to Albany, 4-2

The Kingston High varsity tennis squad lost its first match of the season on Saturday afternoon at the Albany Country Club to Albany Academy by a match score of 4-2. Three singles and one double match was lost by the locals.

The afternoon was very windy and good shots were rare. It was a case of luck many times and Albany seemed to have the greater share of that. However, the local boys are of the opinion that on a calm day the table would be changed.

This single match lost by Palmer "Red" Brodhead is his first defeat in over a year. "Red" won the single championship of the DUSO League last year and it seems his opponent Berwick has several tournament wins to his credit. The score of the sets were 6-4, 6-3.

In the doubles, Brodhead and Captain Brillion teamed up and won from Burwick and Hawn, 7-5, 8-6. This combination of the locals has brought Kingston victory on two occasions.

These boys will have the pleasure of meeting again in about three weeks' time.

Play at St. Stephen's Wednesday.
The tennis squad will have its first home match of the season Wednesday afternoon against St. Stephen's College on the Forsyth Park courts at about 3:30. Last Wednesday afternoon Kingston defeated St. Stephen's, 4-2, on the college courts. This is a return match.

First DUSO Match Saturday.
Saturday afternoon on Forsyth Park courts Kingston will meet Ellenville High School in the first DUSO League match of the season. Ellenville will give Kingston a run for it as had one of the best teams in the league for the past two years.

Results of the Albany match:

Singles.
Berwick, Albany, defeated Brodhead, Kingston, 6-4, 6-3.
Murphy, Albany, defeated Morris, Kingston, 6-3, 6-3.
Chazanof, Kingston, defeated Colson, Albany, 6-3, 6-3.
Hawn, Albany, defeated Brillion, Kingston, 6-4, 6-4.

Doubles.
Brodhead and Brillion, Kingston, defeated Gerwick and Hawn, Albany, 7-5, 8-6.
Murphy and Colson, Albany, defeated Morris and Chazanof, Kingston, 4-6, 6-4, 8-6.

Billiard Series Contests Tonight

At the North Rondout Social Club, Third Avenue and High Street, tonight at 8 o'clock, Rudy Chervenka meets Stanley Wojcik of the Koenig A. C. In the series between the two clubs Chervenka has not lost a game to date and is favored to win tonight.

In the billiard tournament for the championship of the Bogenich-Raskoski parlor, 131 Hasbrouck Avenue, Harold Christiansa meets Louis Kolano tonight at 8 o'clock.

Sr. and Jr. Billiard Tourney Opening

The billiard series between teams composed of a junior and senior player will start tonight at the Colonial parlor, North Front Street, where Julius Teiler, Kingston billiard champion and Tommy LaRocco, his junior partner, oppose Johnny Ferrara and his younger brother. Scheduled starting time of the match is 8 o'clock. The winning combination will meet Jimmy Cantor and Young Frankie Greco at the Nick Kaslich parlor, Wall and John streets, Tuesday night.

Construction of a group of about 100 two-room bungalows in the vicinity of a park and away from dangerous traffic has been voted by the city council of Newburgh-on-Tyne, England, for use of the aged.

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan J. Gould (Associated Press Sports Editor.)

The Texas terror has taken some of the brilliancy out of the California comet this spring.

By which you may quickly gather, if you have not already done so, that we mean Wilmer Allison of Austin, is giving your master Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena more than he can handle, at the moment, in the tussle for No. 1 honors among our Davis Cup athletes.

The early stages of the tennis campaign, given impetus by the Canada-U. S. A. matches at Washington the end of April, reveal Allison in perhaps the best form of his entire career.

Most everyone knows the blond Texan is one of the two best doubles players in the country—the other being Johnny Van Ryn.

It was taken for granted these two might be consigned to their usual team stunt, with Vines and big Frank Shields the best bets for singles competition.

But the returns so far make it imperative to pick Allison for one of the two singles berths in our Davis Cup outfit.

This will be all well and good if Wilmer can stand three straight days of work. Not even Tilden and Johnston could keep their games at top notch for three consecutive days of hard international competition.

It would weaken our doubles strength to break up the Allison-Van Ryn partnership but unless Vines and Shields can show they are more reliable, the singles lineup likewise would be weaker without Allison.

Rhinelanders Rampant
"The transformation of this Cincinnati ball club," writes Frank Grayson in the Cincinnati Times-Star, "from rank tail-enders into an organization that may well become an actual contender for the pennant as the season advances is one of the miracles of baseball, from the David Harum angle."

The rush of the Reds inspires the experts to recognize that Cincinnati, given a winning outfit, is still one of the best baseball teams in the land.

"This love for baseball," notes Grayson, "long quiescent because of the inferior showing of the club, is traditional, because Cincinnati baseball was cradled in Cincinnati and the city never has been without a club since the latter sixties."

With a ball, therefore, to the old Red Stockings, nationally famous shortly after the Civil War, enthusiasm becomes rampant for Dan Howley's personally conducted Redland Revival. He's Dangerous Dan now, around the National League circuit, with a collection of clouters likely to blast the legs out from under any kind of opposition.

Life
The finest throw Jimmy Dykes, famous for his great throwing arm, ever made, was charged to him as an error.

"I've always been able to get that ball across the diamond fast," he remarked in a fanning bee the other day, "but I'll never forget the real toss."

"Doc Johnson was our first baseman back when the Athletics were building a team and we were playing in Detroit. A ball was hit down to me slow and the runner was almost to first when I got it and let it go."

"Instead of rising a little and then straight out about the height of my shoulder and slanted down. It went so fast it beat the runner. But when it got there, Johnson, thinking it was going to hit the dirt, went down too far for it. It smacked his wrist and nearly broke it."

"So they charged me with an error for a poor throw."

Procurer of Death
In Irish and Scotch folk lore, a banshee is a fairy visitor, often in the shape of an old woman, whose wailing under the window of a house foretells death.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press)

An altered lineup and a typical pitching performance by Wild Bill Hallahan has given the world champion St. Louis Cardinals their first victory in four games and snapped the Chicago Cubs' winning streak at seven in a row.

Gabby Street, slightly annoyed by an outfit that had succeeded in winning only five games out of its first fifteen, benched First Baseman Jim Bottomly yesterday, shifted Jimmy Collins to that post and inserted Ray Blades into the outfield.

This lineup stopped the Cubs without trouble, 7 to 1, but the credit perhaps rests chiefly on Hallahan's shoulder. The "wild one" passed ten men but allowed only three singles. Four double plays stopped the Cubs every time Hallahan's generosity put them in a threatening position. George Watkins led a 12-hit attack on Guy Bush, clouting a home run, double and single.

The Cubs' defeat automatically sent the idle Boston Braves into first place.

In the only other National League struggle of the day, the Cincinnati Reds defeated Pittsburgh, 7-5, after the Pirates had gained a 5-0 lead.

The Washington Senators gained the American League lead by beating the New York Yankees, 4-2, as Lloyd Brown outpitched Charley Ruffing in a great duel. Brown witnessed the finish of the game from the clubhouse, Marberry going in with one out in the ninth after the Yankees had put two men on base. Triples by Manush and Myer accounted for three Washington runs in the first two innings.

Wes Ferrell won his fifth game in a row as Cleveland pounded out an 11-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox. It was fairly close until the eighth when Cleveland scored seven runs off Poser and McKain. Earl Averill collected four hits including his fifth home run of the season.

Right hander, Irving Hadley made his first start for the St. Louis Browns, struck out 11 men and beat the Detroit Tigers.

Ulster County Gun Club Scores

H. E. King won the Gold Shoot at the Ulster County Gun Club Saturday, but only after two shoot-offs with Van Gonsic. The first shoot-off was at 25 16-yard targets and resulted in another tie. Then in a mix and out event Van Gonsic missed the third target. King also made the first 25 that has been made in several weeks, which was exceptional good shooting under the wind 25 conditions which lowered all scores of the day.

The weekly shoots at the club until further notice will be held Thursday evenings from 5:30 to dark.

Prissy's Quest

By HELEN ST. BERNARD

THE Wednesday afternoon Ladies Aid society of Midhill was summoned to a meeting. Eleven pairs of littlest best hands were idle. Eleven fanned, the night gowns for the small inmates of the Orphan's asylum were forgotten. The twelfth member of the "Aid," Prissy's Pratt, was standing at the door, her hand on the knob, her round face flushed, her eyes shining. In her other hand, she held some daily colored, descriptive circulars, the covers of which bore a picture of a diminutive steamer.

"Think of it," her voice was husky with emotion. "Four months of romance: Panama—Honolulu—Japan! Cherry blossom time in Japan! India—and the Taj Mahal! Egypt! The Nile and the Pyramids! Italy and Vesuvius—Venice! St. Mark and the pigeons! Monte Carlo and the Bank of Gibraltar! Mine . . . for . . . four . . . whole . . . months!"

Prissy had read the literature of "The Golden Tour" thoroughly. Mrs. Carruthers, the minister's wife, was the first to speak.

"We are glad you had the money left by your uncle, Prissy. You have worked so hard taking care of your folks. Getting along in years . . . and never having married. Money . . ."

The newly made heiress started to button on her coat, her eyes traveling from face to face. She spoke slowly and distinctly. "Yes, all that! Getting along in years . . . never having married . . . and that is why I am going to spend part of the money Uncle Charlie left me . . . going around the world! I'm going to see things! Beauty, life! I'm going to find that romance they talk about."

Prissy's Pratt, the staid demure little spinster of Midhill—going around the world! "A trip around the world!" and Mrs. Smiley clicked her teeth. "My, my. If you could change your mind, Prissy, you might take a nice little trip down to Pittsburgh. It's only a day's ride from here, and there are lots of theaters and pictures and big stores."

"I am going around—the world! You don't understand, none of you! I want romance! Something I have never had."

John Blake, Midhill's carpenter, was a regular caller at Prissy's little cottage on Main street. He lived across the apple orchard in the home he had built many years before, when he had first asked Prissy to marry him. John had always made things easy for Prissy. He had told her at that time, that he would wait—always.

Prissy had the circulars ready to show John when he came that night. His face was ruddy red from the cold and he held his hands out to the stove. "Winter has set in now, Prissy, and you'd better get in another ton of coal while Jeff has it. And I told Watkins to leave you a few of his Hubbard squash when he passes . . ."

Prissy was sitting very straight in her little rocking chair.

"I don't think . . . I'll need any more coal, John . . . nor any of the squash, although his squash are fine, I know."

John looked up quickly. "No?" he drawled.

"You have been a good, true friend, John . . . and I have thought, perhaps, some day I could repay you for all your kindness."

"It's been nothing, Prissy," John was embarrassed. "You remember what I told you twenty years back? When you were ready to come to me . . . I'd be waiting? I ain't changed, Prissy."

"I know, John. Life has been hard for me . . . and it would have been harder if it hadn't been for you. I want you to know I'm grateful to you. All my life I've dreamed of romance . . . and beauty. Life!"

John hitched his chair closer and leaned forward. He placed his big hand over hers. His voice was gentle: "Prissy, life is hard . . . if you haven't anyone to care for . . . or care for you. Hard . . . and lonely. And I love you just the same."

Prissy reached out for her sewing that lay on the window seat. She dropped it over the gaily colored circulars in her lap and her hands were folded on top of it; idle, just as eleven pairs of hands had lain idle that afternoon on sewing, at the Aid society. She met John's kind gray eyes, so near. He smiled at her.

"I'll do my best to make you happy, Prissy. I'll try to bring all the beauty I can into your life. All the romance and the happiness . . . that comes with love, Prissy dear. I'll love you . . . always."

She smiled at John and his hand tightened over hers.

"Do you suppose I could give you all the romance and happiness you have wanted all these years?" he asked gently. "Do you, Prissy? We might take a trip down to Pittsburgh for two or three days, but Peters is anxious to get the plaster on his walls so he can move in next month."

"Life wouldn't mean much if you don't have some one to love you . . ."

"Would you like to honeymoon at Pittsburgh, Prissy?"

"I have always wanted to go to Pittsburgh, John, since I was a little girl. Always."

Prissy's head was against John's shoulder now. "And they say the blast furnaces light the sky up beautiful, nights . . ."

At The Theatres

Today.

Kingston: "The Miracle Man." One of the greatest of the silent films now comes to the talking screen with a new cast, and the advantages of modern photography. The story centers around the old faith-healing theme, and it packs a veritable dramatic punch. A notable cast helps make this talkie a great success. Hobart Bosworth is splendid in the role of the Miracle Man. Chester Morris gives an exceptional performance as the rank leader, John Wray, in the role of the fake miracle. That started Lon Chaney on the road to stardom. Is effective, and Sylvia Sydney is good in the role that brought Betty Compson fame in the old moving picture version. Others in the cast include Irving Pichel, Boris Karloff, and Jackie Coogan. A "Mickey Mouse" cartoon is another feature of the program.

Orpheum: "Arrowsmith." The famous novel of Sinclair Lewis has been adapted to the screen in a realistic and enjoyable manner. Ronald Colman proves his dramatic ability in the role of the young doctor who rises to great heights in his profession, and Helen Hayes as his wife, gives a performance that is understandingly human. Good entertainment.

Broadway: "Seven Paramount Vaudeville Acts" on the stage, and "The Wiser Sex" on the screen. The vaudeville offers "Grace Claire and Haines" in dances that are different. "Cole, Eleanor and Cole" in a merry musical presentation, along with five other stage acts. "The Wiser Sex" couldn't help but be a success. Full movie with a cast that includes Claudette Colbert, Lilyan Tashman, Melvyn Douglas, and William Boyd. It's a story that takes in everything from society to politicians to gangsters. There are a lot of thrills in this talkie, and it will prove enjoyable entertainment if it isn't taken with too much seriousness.

Ritz: "Arsene Lupin." Acting perfection by the Barrymore boys raises this talkie to the heights. Never have John or Lionel Barrymore given finer characterizations than in this interesting story, and that is saying much considering their professional reputations. The story centers around a dashing Parisian thief who baffles the police with his continual eccentricities. John Barrymore, as Arsene Lupin, the clever criminal, furnishes the romantic interest in this thoroughly enjoyable film, and Lionel Barrymore, as Captain of the Police, gives perhaps his finest character performance. Both of them outdo themselves, and the honors end up all even. Karen Morley, a newcomer, proves to be a new and fascinating discovery, and her acting is enjoyable. But the show goes to the Barrymore brothers where it belongs. Splendid entertainment.

SMALL HOUSE AT FISH CREEK BURNED SATURDAY

Early Saturday morning a small house on the property of Mrs. Marie Scott Cunningham of Fish Creek was destroyed by fire. The property was located in the town of Saugerette and through an error was doubly assessed by the town assessors in 1928. At the 1929 tax sale the property was sold for taxes and Friday evening of last week on affidavit of the assessors of the town of Saugerette the board of supervisors was petitioned to strike from the assessment roll the double assessment and authorize a refund to the purchaser of the property, Tessie DeWitt, money which she had paid for the property at the 1929 tax sale when the tax deed given her was presented for cancellation.

Health Station Of Junior League On Meadow Street

May Day of each year is set aside as National Child Health Day at which time each community is urged to support child health programs. Two years ago in celebration of Child Health Week, the Junior League of Kingston opened its Meadow street health station.

This year all those who are interested in the work of caring for children are invited to visit this health station on Wednesday afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock to see the improvements which have been carried on there.

Wednesday afternoon a clinic will be held at the health station and the mothers, babies, doctor nurse, and her assistant will all be there.

The Junior League is anxious to have many residents of the city become acquainted with their part of Kingston's child health program. The health station is open every Wednesday afternoon when clinics for babies are held there.

DAIRMEN'S LEAGUE DISBURSES $1,031,583.57 TO SECURITY HOLDERS

Principal and interest amounting to $1,031,583.57, due May first on series AA Certificates of Indebtedness and coupons of other series was disbursed on that date by the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., through local banks in the New York milk shed, to members of the association and other holders of these securities.

This sum represents principal amounting to $570,298.31 on AA certificates outstanding and due on May first. The additional $461,285.26 represents interest coupons on series AA and other issues due at the same time.

The original amount of the AA issue which covered deductions for the fiscal year of the association, which ended March 31, 1927, was $2,457,677.36. For the past year the association has been purchasing these certificates at par with interest to the beginning of the month in which the purchase was made. Since March first it has paid par and interest to maturity in order to facilitate the redemption of the issue and accommodate its members who were in need of cash. As a result, a total of $1,887,379.05, or nearly 75 per cent of the total original issue, was redeemed prior to maturity.

The AA series is the sixth issue of League certificates to mature. Other series maturing in previous years were A, B, C, D, and E. The total amount of principal represented by the six series of certificates redeemed by the League to date is approximately $18,000,000.

PRESIDENT RETURNS FROM WEEK-END VACATION

Washington, May 2 (AP).—A two-days devoid of state cares President Hoover back to his duties today a rested and invigorated man. He returned to the White House late yesterday evening from a week-end at his Virginia mountain camp, devoted mainly to hunting wild trout. Mr. Hoover's fishing skill fooled a round about the bag limit—before he put away his rod.
